ST. MARK'S GUILD LADIES PREPARE FOR BAZAAR

Booths Will Be on Church
Grounds—Luncheon and Dinner To Be Served

GOOSE ON EXHIBITION

Apron, Linen, Candy, Fancy Work, Fortune Telling and Other Booths

Final arrangements for the bazaar to be given by St. Mark's Guild on June 2 were made at a guild meeting on Thursday, presided over by Mrs. C. A. Holbrook, the president.

Booths for this affair, for which preparations are being made by the ladies, will be erected on the church grounds at Harvard and Louise streets, and luncheon and dinner will be served in the dining hall of the church.

Committees in charge of the various attractions are hard at work evolving features and perfecting plans to insure the success of this all-day fete.

Mrs. Helen Campbell is chairman of the apron booth. She is assisted by Mrs. J. T. Cate. The linen booth is presided over by Mrs. F. Card, who has as her assistants Mmes. Carre and Bassett. The candy booth and the fortune-telling booths are in charge of the Girls' Friendly, members of which lively body of young ladies, report that their fortune-teller is going to be a drawing card; her identity they refuse to divulge.

Dainty articles of children's attire will be on sale in a booth where Mrs. Mortimer Baker will preside; her assistants are Mrs. M. K. Smith and Miss Ellen Williams. Mrs. Goodwin is chairman of a booth where caps, sachets and ribbons will be sold. Laundry bags as well as pretty, fancy ones, will be found in Mrs. F. T. Howland's booth; she will be assisted by Mmes. Rose Humphreys and C. L. Hill.

A great goose will be on exhibition in a booth in care of Mrs. R. H. Downing and Mrs. Crampton. Last it is supposed that this is one of the plebeian, barnyard variety of lamellirostrals, or even one of the vexatious human variety, these ladies emphasize the statement that this is a magic goose, a goose as remarkable as the fabled one which laid the golden egg—for, upon receiving a small monetary consideration this magic goose will give forth a piece little present.

Lunch and dinner and the general arrangements of the dining room will be in charge of a committee headed by Mrs. Frank England. Mrs. J. B. Chapman and her committee have charge of the ice cream booth; Mrs. C. Russ is chairman of the committee in the booth where the "hot dogs" will be sold.

SUCCESSFUL WORK OF RELIEF CORPS

Mrs. R. L. Mulligan was hostess to the Relief Corps Kensington Club at their meeting last week, entertaining them at her home, 114 East Park avenue. Guests of the club were Mrs. Bernstein and Mrs. Haller.

The work of the afternoon was, as usual, philanthropic in its nature, the 24 ladies present playing their needles busily in sewing for the Monte Vista Children's Home and the Evergreen Home of the Woman's Relief Corps.

At a brief business meeting, presided over by the president of the club, Mrs. Juliana Hayes, a report of the work of the past month showed that donation for the work to the amount of $38 were made; one comforter, valued at $8, was finished and sent to the Evergreen Home; two small crib comforters and 22 articles were finished for the Monte Vista, including towels, wash cloths and children's clothing.

"Bundle Day"

Wednesday of next week is nationally known as "Bundle Day." Cast-off clothing is to be gathered for needy orphans and refugees in Bible lands. Glendale is making ready to do its share on a large scale. The Scout and Y. M. C. A. boys and school children are all to do their bit as collectors, together with the above call for your bundle, on next WEDNESDAY, get it to the nearest Fire Engine House by noon of the following day.

WESTMINSTER GUILD ENJOYS CHURCH SUPPER

Study of Africa Conducted by Misses Phyllis Baker and Marion Clark

Young ladies of the Westminster Guild of the First Presbyterian church enjoyed a fine supper in the church dining room on Thursday evening, prepared by Martha Eilers and her committee. Three of the patronesses, Mmes. Buck, Harrison and Nelson, were guests of the pleasant affair.

The study of Africa was led by Phyllis Baker and Marion Clark. At the business meeting following the study period, plans were discussed for a party in honor of the new girls coming into the church.

Chairmen of committees were appointed for the coming year. Marie Maier was named chairman of the social committee; Mildred Cole was chosen as head of the membership committee, and Mary Wilkins was chosen as chairman of the committee on devotionals.

LUTHER REYNOLDS MAKES ADDRESS

Despite the lowering clouds and intermittent showers of last evening, there was a large attendance at the Brotherhood dinner held in the social hall of the First Methodist church.

Luther Reynolds, secretary of the Methodist city missionary society of Los Angeles, was the speaker of the evening. Taking for his topic "Totin' Your Load," Mr. Reynolds depicted the various kinds of burdens, individual and collective, that are to be borne, and pointed out that service to the world demands that they be carried with cheerfulness. Optimism was the keynote of his discourse.

Dr. S. B. Warner, chaplain of the Brotherhood, led in prayer, and the speaker was introduced by Dr. C. M. Crist, pastor of the First Methodist church.

A short business session, presided over by A. G. Lindley, president, preceded the program.

The bell in the cathedral of St. Stephens, Vienna, weighs 39,096 pounds and is made of 186 pieces of cannon taken from the Turks.

NUMBER OF MEN AND TRUCKS HOLD UP AND ROB TRAIN OF GOODS

(By International News Service)

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 21.—Twenty-six men with six automobile trucks early today held the crew of a New York Central freight train at bay on the Lockport branch between Walmore and Sanborn, north of here, and took from $50,000 to $75,000 worth of merchandise from the cars. The crew was forced to leave the train and while two of the bandits covered them with guns, the rest of the thieves scrambled through car after car taking merchandise.

After unloading the great quantity of freight unto the trucks, the bandits drove away. More than $2000 worth of merchandise was left behind as the robbers could not find room for it on the trucks.

MISS MOTTERN IN GREAT DEMAND

Miss Elizabeth Mottern, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Mottern of 211 North Adams street, sang last evening at the Normal Hill Center, at the children's vaudeville. Miss Mottern sang: "A Maiden Loves a Little Boy" (Cloughlighter); "Reveries" (Speaks); "The Answer" (Terry); and "The Spring Song of the Robin Woman," from the opera "Shamewis," by Cadman.

Miss Mottern is greatly in demand both as a vocalist and accompanist, having many engagements which will keep her quite busy until vacation time. On May 28 she will accompany for Miss Lillian Backstrand, who will be vocal soloist in the senior piano recital given by Miss Marguerite Halben, a former graduate of Glendale high school.

June 3, she will give the vocal numbers for the Polytechnic evening high school commencement; June 7 she will render vocal numbers at the Ebell club house; June 17, at the U. S. C. high school commencement.

The greatest pleasure to which she is looking forward is commencement week at the University of Southern California, June 19 to 24, when the new $600,000 building and the $30,000 pipe organ will be dedicated by a festival of music. Miss Mottern will sing with the Choral Union in Hayden's "Creation," and participate in the commencement exercises of the College of Music of U. S. C. on the evening of June 24.

Mrs. Le Roy W. Bosserman, accompanist.

Tea will be served by ladies of the section, in costume, after the program. Tickets for this interesting program are on sale at Bott's bookstore. The proceeds will be added to the building fund for the new clubhouse.

High School Jottings

Politics will soon be making things warm at Glendale high. Nominations for officers of the student body will begin coming in next week, and a hot, though very good-natured competition is expected.

Copy for the Stylus is said to be coming along in good shape and the editors are very optimistic about this year's book which they say will be the best ever.

Members of the deputations committee have received invitations from Burbank and Alhambra to visit those cities and conduct evening church services as representatives of the High Y. Dale Wood and George Jordan are two of the members of this committee who will be sent out for these services which will include talks and music that will probably be provided by a High Y. quartet. The school now has three of these organizations with a membership of about 50.

ENTERTAIN FOR COMING BRIDE

Mr. and Mrs. Christy Give Dinner in Honor of Miss
Thelma Gilbert

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Christy, whose wedding a few months ago in the First Methodist church of this city was one of the big social events of the winter, entertained Friday evening at their pretty home in Downey, for Miss Thelma Gilbert of Burbank, who is soon to become the bride of E. C. Radcliff. Miss Gilbert was one of Mrs. Christy's bridesmaids and it was a great pleasure to the young hostess to have this little function in her honor.

The table appointments were charming and included beautifully embroidered linen, cut glass, silver and china, the wedding gifts of the young matron. White rosebuds centered the table, and a delicious four-course repast was served which had all been prepared by the efficient hostess. Covers were laid for Miss Gilbert and E. C. Radcliff of Burbank; Miss Leone Brice, Gilbert Kingman and A. C. Bush of Glendale, Miss Mildred Kingman of Orange, Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Elmore of Downey, and the host and hostess.

Following the dinner, guests were entertained with games and music in the living room, where shaded lights shed a soft glow over the attractive ensemble and where the air was fragrant with the scent of the American Beauty roses that filled tall vases and added a finishing note of color and cheer.

MAIL CAR LOOTED ON SOUTHERN PACIFIC A MILE EAST OF NEW CASTLE

(By International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, Calif., May 21.—United States Postal Inspector W. E. Madiera arrived here early today to personally direct the search by two posses of deputy sheriffs for the lone bandit who late last night looted the mail car of the Pacific limited train on the Southern Pacific railroad of seven sacks of mail after rendering Postal Clerk Ralph Decker unconscious from a blow on the head with the butt of a revolver. The robbery occurred one mile east of Newcastle and 20 miles west of here. The robber slit open 51 sacks of mail before selecting the seven which he threw from the train and made his escape in an automobile.

Postal authorities stated no registered mail was in the car. Inspector Madiera expressed the belief that the mail robbery may have been carried out by Roy Gardner, escaped mail robber, who recently eluded posses when surrounded in Gordon valley, near Napa.

Decker was armed, but had no opportunity to use his revolver. He declared the unmasked bandit apparently had hidden in the car and sprang upon him from behind, and when he attempted to struggle struck him a heavy blow with the butt of a revolver. Decker did not recover consciousness for some time. The bandit secured Decker's keys, but the task of unlocking the mail bags was evidently too slow a process, as he used a knife to slash open the sacks.

The other members of the train force were first apprised that there had been a robbery when the signal cord was pulled, stopping the train. Investigating, they found Decker unconscious and saw the mail bandit drive away in a waiting automobile. They say another man had apparently been waiting at the wheel of the automobile.

Decker, when revived, told officers the bandit was unmasked, about 35 years of age, 5 feet 11 inches in height, weighed 160 pounds and wore a blue shirt and blue overalls.

Local officials are inclined to believe that the robbery was committed by the two men who were foiled in an attempt to rob the mail storage car of the San Francisco-Ogden express earlier in the week.

INDOOR GARDEN FETE TRIUMPH IN SPITE OF WEATHER

Outdoor Amusements Transformed to an Indoor Tournament

The weather man who sits up aloft and empties the clouds when they get too heavy, certainly had it in for the Federation of Parent-Teacher associations yesterday, the day set for its garden fete at the Intermediate school. The rain which had been light in the forenoon, increased to "peripatetic" downpours in the afternoon. The ladies who had the affair in hand were good sports, however. Intermediate teachers and pupils are nothing if not hospitable, so the committees were given the warmest kind of an invitation to "come in out of the rain," and hold the fete in the corridors. Chairmen promptly accepted and presently the booths, brave in floral and other decorations, were converting school thoroughfares in the semblance of a "midway."

The children from Intermediate, the high school, Broadway and elsewhere, who do not mind a little rain, were ready to do their part and so the holiday crowd was provided to consume the sandwiches and coffee, the punch, the cake, popcorn, peanuts and candy, and make the racket, the laughter, the litter, that is always the accompaniment of a successful affair.

There was no attempt to have the parade, the pet stock show or the evening performance. The general committee announces that the entertainment will take place in the Intermediate auditorium next Tuesday evening, and that it will be preceded by side shows put on by the high school association, between 7 and 8 p. m. As these are likely to provide the pep that will give an appetite for what is to come, every patron should be on hand early, to enjoy the fun.

The children's parade and floral tournament, when decorated toy vehicles will be in line ready to receive awards, will take place Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at Intermediate.

Mrs. J. I. Wernette of the general committee reports that the first prize for the cake made according to the recipe furnished by Mrs. Vaughn, was won by Mrs. G. D. Roach, the second premium going to Mrs. Kuehny. There was a third winner whose name she had not learned.

She was very happy over the response of the public and reports receipts exceeded $150. There will be more to follow from sales of fancy-work and from the entertainment, and the committee feels that it has triumphed in spite of the weather man.

"GLEN AND DALE"

The reports that are coming to Christian Endeavor convention headquarters are beginning to loom large with promise for the gathering to be held in Glendale about a month hence. The records show that in Los Angeles county alone 575 have already registered for attendance and paid their dollar. Records from other counties show 585 have checked in with the fees. The apportionment of attendance from each county has been figured out and the general committee is giving out flags as fast as each county reaches its allotment. These flags are numbered and are bestowed in sequence. Thus far 14 flags have been allotted and the good work is increasing like a snowball.

Members of all the local committees are to go to Los Angeles Sunday afternoon to meet with the Los Angeles county executive committee in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. at 2:30. It will be quite a delegation which will include the officers of the general committee, viz.: Howard L. Brown, chairman; Will Richards, second vice chairman; Nancy St. Clair, secretary; Lois Mock, assistant secretary; James Cooper, treasurer; Rev. C. A. Cole, counselor. On the finance committee are: A. L. Baird, chairman; R. F. Kitterman, Blake Franklin, George Higby, James Cooper. Members at large are T. W. Watson, C. E. Culver, Nellie A. Warner, and George Higby. Then there are 13 other committees or whom the chairmen are: Publicity, J. A. Newton; entertainment, Ethel Preston; registration, Lowell Donnell; decoration, C. C. Stoler; reception, Carol Duncan; ushers, H. W. Yarik; pages and guides, Fred Hoffman; halls and churches, W. G. Boyd; pulpit supply, Rev. E. E. Ford; commissary, Mrs. H. W. Yarik; transportation, W. E. McCormick; information, Harry Marple; music, Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts.

J. W. COUNTS, VICTIM OF APHASIA, HELD IN JAIL

Man Worth Large Fortune
Found by Brother Wandering on Street

MISSING FOUR YEARS

Has Wife and Children at Houston, Texas—Will Be Returned Home

WHEELING, W. Va., May 21.—That he has a fortune of between $200,000 and a half million dollars, and a wife and children at Houston, Tex., was the startling information received by J. W. Counts, aphasia victim, held in the local jail by the authorities. Its all news to him, Counts declares, who has been missing from home four years and was given up as dead until his brother-in-law, James W. Gillespie, a Texas oil man, encountered him on the street yesterday, induced him to accompany him to the police station and there had him detained.

Efforts to refresh Counts' memory have been futile, he remembering nothing further back than the 1919 world series at Chicago. When found here he was working as an orderly in a local hospital. Counts complains constantly of neuralgia pains in his head. It is likely arrangements will be made to take him back to Texas in the hope that once familiar sights and scenes will restore his mind to normal.

B. A. MEETS WITH MRS. WILLIAMS

Sew for Red Cross—Pleasant
Visit Enjoyed by Guests
From Abroad

The regular all-day meeting of Chapter B. A. P. E. O., was held at the home of Mrs. Kate Williams in South Orange street. The regular business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Madeline Kelley. This was followed by a delicious luncheon, served by Mrs. Williams and the assisting hostesses, Mrs. Elizabeth Downing and Miss Dorothy Williams, the latter having just come down from Berkeley where she graduated May 11, from the University of California.

After the luncheon and a pleasant visit with the guests of the day, Mrs. Laura Joyce, Miss Margaret Couch and Mrs. Agnes Smith, all of Chapter W., Los Angeles, also Mrs. Frank Ayars and Mrs. E. W. Hayward of Chapter C. J., Glendale, and Mrs. Clark from Bakersfield, sewing for the Red Cross was taken up under the directorship of the philanthropic chairman, Mrs. Edith Arnold. A splendid lot of work was accomplished, four machines gong and about 20 women kept busy for the entire afternoon.

The next meeting of Chapter B. A. will be at the home of Mrs. Josephine Brant, North Kenwood street, on May 20.

SUBJECT "STAINED GLASS" WINDOWS

Mr. Spaulding, of Tiffany's, New York city, is a visitor in Glendale and will address the members of the Church of the Holy Family after the 9:30 mass tomorrow morning. His subject is "Stained Glass Windows."

Various organizations in the parish are active in securing pledges for memorial windows of Tiffany design, which will make this church, though not the largest in this section, certainly one of the most beautiful.

May Call Out Militia

ALBANY, N. Y., May 21.—State militia may be called upon today to maintain order here.

The capital city, laboring under a trolley strike of five months' duration, last night and early today was the scene of serious rioting when hundreds attacked cars and effectually stopped all trolley service.

State troopers and local police, who have resumed 24 hours strike duty, found a resentful crowd beyond their control at times.

Jitneys, the summary stopping of which brought about riot conditions again today are openly and defiantly operating.

The lie-detecting apparatus, invented by William M. Marston of Harvard University. When the inquisitor starts questioning the suspect the dial starts turning. When the suspect replies this stops the dial and indicates the mental reaction, or the time needed to think and answer. If the suspect attempts to conceal guilty knowledge the blood pressure increases, which informs the questioner of the attempt to tell an untruth.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 21.—Successful lying will soon be a lost art. The latest achievement of science is a machine which is said to be infallible in detecting a lie.

William Molton Marston, Boston lawyer-scientist, is the inventor of the psychological lie-detector.

The principal benefit to civilization of this machine will be in its faculty of detecting untruths in criminal cases.

Mr. Marston, who is a member of the Harvard University faculty, claims no supernatural powers for the instrument, which is known as the sphygmomanometer, but points out that in every case where the test was applied in court cases the machine unerringly detected statements that were false.

"The whole secret," declared Mr. Marston, "lies in the scientific fact that any person telling an untruth experiences an emotion which absolutely affects the blood pressure and breathing. The effort to make what is true appear true causes an exertion which can be definitely traced by means of the stethoscope."

"The simplicity of the apparatus and method of the test are its first recommendations for practical use. The instrument is attached to the left arm about the elbow, of the subject. The operator takes frequent pressures while the subject is being cross-examined."

The sphygmomanometer, which is operated by electricity, resembles vaguely the apparatus with which blood pressure is taken and is part of the development of the scientific detection of crime, inaugurated at Harvard laboratory under Professor Hugo Munsterberg in 1915.

GEORGE KELLY'S
RISE TO FAME

Wonder Slugger From Pacific Coast League Is Making Good in East

(By International News Service)
NEW YORK, May 21.—George Kelly's rise to fame as Babe Ruth's National League challenger has flooded the sport pages with interesting statistics, biographical sketches and various conjectures as to how George really does it.

There is a psychological side to the development of Kelly as a home-run hitter after several years of comparative obscurity—a side we have not seen exploited in the abundant publicity that Kelly is getting.

John McGraw summed it up when he discussed Kelly's possibilities as a hitter three years ago.

"If he thinks he has something on the pitcher he can wallop," said McGraw, "but if he feels the pitcher has something on him he hasn't the confidence and goes after bad balls."

Looking back over Kelly's career with the Giants and in the minor leagues we are inclined to string with McGraw.

Long George came in from the Pacific Coast League about five years ago. He was only 19 then, but as tall and almost as heavy as he is now. He had been slugging the Coast League pitchers for many extra base hits.

In the training camps Kelly was a bear. He could hit practice pitching a mile. And he murdered those minor league pitchers in the south. In those games George just walked up and "busted 'em."

"If he ever gets that old confidence against big league pitching," said McGraw, "he'll hit the same as he is hitting down here. Kel regards these pitchers as bushers. He knows he can hit them and he does."

The necessary confidence was lacking in Kelly when he first began to flirt with major league pitching as a pinch hitter. Occasionally he played first base or the outfield, but in his hitting there was a certain hesitancy—a timidity that put him on the defensive against pitchers and those chatty catchers.

McGraw's Prediction
McGraw sent Kelly to Rochester, where he had a wonderful season. Maybe George assumed that the International League pitchers were "bushers." Anyhow he whacked many home runs and closed the season as the league's best hitter. Scouts from many big league clubs bid for his services, but John McGraw, exercised his option. He brought Kelly back to New York that fall.

"Maybe he's ready," said McGraw, "I tell you that bird will start hitting some day and they'll never stop him. Everybody will wonder where he came from."

McGraw's steadfast faith in Kelly is now being rewarded. In the passing of Chase arose an opportunity for Kelly to play first base regularly. In his first year as a regular Kelly was undoubtedly handicapped by knowledge of the fact that he was just another minor league slugger facing good pitching. Last season he tried hard, but could not please the crowds. He struck out so many times that he became a target for the "raspberry" shooters. He tried hard, but somehow the pitchers could fool him on the deciding pitch.

And still McGraw stuck to him.

The Mental Attitude
Kelly may now be classed as a veteran in the National League. He knows all the pitchers, is afraid of none of them, and steps up to the plate with confidence. He feels that he "has something" on young pitchers. The older ones no longer dominated his mental attitude. The result is that Kelly is hitting naturally and without nervousness.

The great percentage that Ruth has on the pitchers is their reluctance to pitch a ball over the plate to him. He hits the "groovers" for long distances, so pitchers keep the ball away from him. In the pinches Ruth isn't nervous, but the pitchers are.

It was just the other way with Kelly until this season. He will hit better as he goes along, because pitchers feel that the burden is on them when Kelly is crouching at the plate ready to strike.

"Let George do it!" is Babe Ruth's slogan. It is partly a threat and partly skepticism.

OBJECTS TO ANIMAL
SERUM TREATMENT

(By International News Service)
BEND, Ore., May 21.—Tom Vedder, rancher of Lower Bridge, Ore., believes the golden rule should apply to animals as well as men.

Tom, while in the army, was compelled to take his regulation nine "shots" in the arm before being allowed to take a shot at the enemy.

But Tom refuses to allow his cherished sows to be subjected to any such treatment. He protested vigorously when Dr. George Trubey, tuberculosis inspector, wanted to inoculate the animals, and if they receive their "shots" it will be only because the law requires it.

QUESTIONS BENEFIT OF WEST BROADWAY CUT

Editor Glendale Press: I have just spent the day investigating the probable cost of this alleged improvement. I have gone to owners and to real estate men who are thoroughly familiar with local conditions. Their estimates vary from $75,000 to $90,000 for the necessary property, and then for paving the new street and because of the fact that the west side of Central is below the east side—repaving nearly two blocks of Central and 300 or 400 feet of Ivy, another $25,000, just about balanced by the land and buildings not needed for the new street and to be resold by the city; $75,000 to pay and Broadway, Ivy and Wilson will probably pay one-third of it. We will have quite a bill to pay. Now if someone will kindly tell us what we are to get for our money we will all be happy.

Some claim that it will be safer, but I asked the first 24 auto drivers I met their opinion as to the comparative safety "as is" or as proposed. Nineteen say safer as is, four say not much difference and one a notoriously reckless driver says it would be better if changed. It may be interesting to some folks to know that with a speed limit at this point of 15 miles, any number of machines take the corner at 20 miles or better. Would these reckless ones slow down if given a practically straight street?

Now up to the present moment no one has given me a real reason for changing the street except that the present jog confuses strangers. This is obviously true, but can be corrected thoroughly in a number of ways at a comparatively trifling cost. In short, a good many of us would like to know:

First—Who will be benefited?
Second—What it will cost?
Third—Who will pay the bill?

Commends Rev. O'Neill

Editor Glendale Press—I read in your paper about a week ago a letter from Rev. Father O'Neill in regard to dancing among the scholars at the union high school of Glendale. This was a reply to a certain number of ecclesiastical gentlemen of Glendale.

As we all know, this is a public school, built by the people for the people, non-sectarian, attended by Catholics, Adventists, Christian Scientists, Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Baptists, Congregationalists, Lutherans and a host of others that have no recognized form of religion. All these have a voice in our school affairs.

I have known Father O'Neill for ten years as one of the most broad-minded persons in Glendale, and I only wish that we had a few more like him.

I am not a Catholic but can make myself at home in any church—they all lead to the same place at the finish, and when we are dead and gone, one will bury us whether we have money to pay for it or not.

I would like to see the board of trustees of our schools made up of one each of the representatives of these various churches, and then all could have a square deal.

I don't dance, smoke, chew or use liquor in any form, but I don't wish to bar anyone else from the little pleasures of life, moderation in all things. "Live and let live is my motto. I am a lover of all forms of innocent amusements and sports. Some of our large churches in Los Angeles have added motion pictures to their Sunday evening exercises, taking up a collection for the same. This might be copied here in Glendale at our churches and schools on an educational basis.

Politics or religion should not enter into public office, but all our big family, living in perfect harmony, would make this a delightful city to live in.

GERMANS BAR HOME
WORK FOR PUPILS

(By International News Service)
BERLIN, May 21.—"Hooray, Skiny! No more home work!" Or, rather, "Dreimal hoch! Hoch! Hoch! Hoch!" as the German schoolboys say. The German minister of education has decreed that the place to do school work is in school. No more getting dad to do your algebra for you.

"Parents shall not be burdened with doing the work which properly belongs to the class instructor," says the decree. "Class work shall be restricted to avoid undue burdening of the memory."

MOTHER OF TRIPLETS

(By International News Service)
HUBBARD LAKE, Mass., May 21.—Mrs. Orville Robb has just presented her husband with a healthy set of twins, making five children born to the couple within a year. About eleven months ago she gave birth to triplets, all of them living. The Robbs now have ten children. The oldest is eight years old.

SEWER SYSTEM FOR VERDUGO CANYON

Board Authorizes Plans and Specifications for Proposed Improvement

At the meeting of the city trustees Thursday night, City Manager Watson stated that the $50,000 bond issue for sewer system in the Verdugo canyon district had been approved by Bond Expert J. G. Thompson, and requested authority to have prepared plans and specifications for a trunk line extending from the north line of tract No. 250 along Canada boulevard, Verdugo road and Glendale avenue, to the proposed disposal site, to be prepared by the city engineer.

The authority was granted by the board, also authority to secure from Olmsted and Gillellan a proposition to prepare plans and specifications for a modern sewage disposal plant of sufficient capacity to take care of the district to be served; those plans to provide for a unit of modern design, one that will recover the solids and convert them into a commercial fertilizer product and that will produce an effluent that can be used for surface irrigation without objectionable odors; the entire plant to be enclosed and the whole process to be accomplished without producing any odors that would be objectionable, using the activated sludge process if practicable.

At 1 1/2 per cent, simple interest, money doubles in 22 years and 81 days; at compound interest, in 15 years and 273 days.

GIRL OF TODAY IS TOO MUCH CRITICIZED

(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON, May 21.—The modern American girl is not bad.

Notwithstanding her knee-length skirts, cigaret smoking and general make-up, she has been too much blamed for conditions over which she has no control.

This is the opinion of Mrs. Thomas Estill, one of the leading Salvation Army workers of America, who is in Washington attending the National Social Congress of that organization. "I don't see why they don't stop picking on the girls," said Commissioner Estill. "The girl of today is too much criticized. Let the poor little thing alone."

"I have worked among girls in every big city in the eastern part of the United States as the wife of the territorial commissioner of the Salvation Army. I know girls.

"Of course, it is deplorable that girls smoke, wear scant attire, run around alone too much, and are generally reckless.

"But why blame the girls? It is simply the spirit of the times."

"After all," the Salvation Army worker said, "the girl of today is the same sweet girl our grandmothers used to be. . . just dressed in different clothes."

ADVENTIST SCHOOL GIVES FINE PROGRAM

Greatly Appreciated by Large Audience Which Gathers in Church to Enjoy It

Pupils of the Seventh-day Adventist school on Isabel street gave a very nice miscellaneous program Thursday night, in the Seventh-day Adventist church, several of the numbers having been written by the teachers of the school for the occasion.

The first number was "Awakened Chorus" by pupils of the higher grades.

Then came the primary tots with a recitation of the entire first chapter of Genesis, the days of creation being illustrated with cards bearing drawings of animals and other objects, made by Miss Miller, primary teacher, who is an artist of pronounced ability. Elder Westphal then offered up a prayer. The subsequent numbers were:

Songs by intermediate grades, "Sundays" and "Swinging 'Neath the Old Apple Tree."

Piano duet, Elizabeth Cook and Miriam Lucas.

Recitation, "The Grandmother's Sermon," Little Hazel Emerson, dressed as a grandmother, knitting in hand, with three children grouped around her on the floor.

Dialogue on "Temperance," with features enacted by a group of boys, including Frank Travis who won much applause.

Trio, "Lullaby," Miriam Lucas, Elizabeth Cook and Ruth Rombeau.

Pantomime, "The Two Angels." For this number, electric lights were turned off and a flashlight thrown on the rostrum. Little Phyllis Kimlin was the central figure and two children were dressed as angels, one in black to represent an evil angel, the other in white to represent a good angel. The temptation of the little girl, inspired by the bad angel, to take an apple that did not belong to her, and her rescue from the evil influence by the good angel, were very prettily depicted.

Poem, "The Barefoot Boy," by Chas. Jones, accompanied by Frank Travis impersonating the barefoot boy.

Chorus, "Sail On," by fifteen of the older pupils.

Talks about the missionary society of the school, its work and goals, by two primary girls, Beatrice Tower and Marcella Nelson.

Dialogue about the needs of the school by seven or eight girls dressed in middies, who told of the equipment they wished and their desire to make it a model school. It was well done, and at the conclusion the girls passed through the audience with little baskets and took up a collection for the equipment.

Talks by the pastor, Rev. E. F. Neff, Dr. C. A. Burrows, Prof. Max Hill, principal of the school, and Elder Munson, chaplain of the Glendale sanitarium.

Closing chorus by the school, "Oh, My Soul, Bless Thou Jehovah."

Benediction.

The school numbers 125 pupils divided into eleven grades. A larger building is planned for the use of the school next year, one more grade will be added and several teachers. During the vacation new equipment will be installed and various improvements made.

All the members of the teaching staff, which includes Prof. Hill, W. B. Dodge, Misses G. B. Miller, Edith Barnes and Mabel de Groot, have done fine work which is appreciated, and all have been reengaged for the coming year.

The school will close the 27th of this month.

BROADWAY PARENT-TEACHER MEETING

New Officers Elected for Coming Year—Stage Equipment Discussed

The Broadway Parent-Teacher association held its regular meeting Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Horner presiding. The principal business of the session was the election of officers for the coming year, which resulted as follows:

Mrs. F. A. Wilkinson, president; Mrs. Kane, vice-president; Mrs. Williams, secretary; Mrs. V. G. Godfrey, treasurer; Mrs. A. J. Van Wie, parliamentarian; Mrs. Griffin, historian.

A proposition to equip the stage with scenery was brought up, but action was postponed until fall.

The two glee clubs of the school gave much enjoyed chorus numbers and generously responded with encores.

Excursion Date Changed

Altom Miller & Company report that the large auto excursion which they were to conduct to Huntington beach today at 1:30, has been postponed to Tuesday afternoon at the same hour, on account of weather conditions.

ORDINANCE TO FIX P. E. TRACKS GRADE

City Engineer Instructed to Draft Grade Ordinance Covering Matter

Of interest to citizens who are active in the movement to bring to street grade the Pacific Electric right of way on Brand boulevard was the action taken by city trustees at their meeting last night based on a report of City Manager Watson.

The board voted to instruct the city engineer to draft a grade ordinance relative to Pacific Electric crossings on Brand boulevard providing for the same grades as the roadbed of the street. Following is the report of the city manager relative to such crossings:

Complying with our request, the city engineer has investigated the status of all Brand boulevard crossings within the city of Glendale and we are in receipt of his report as follows:

Doran street crossing and all through streets south to and including Colorado street are dedicated crossings.

Elk avenue is private right of way with easement to the city for street purposes only.

Lomita avenue is private right of way with no easement.

Chestnut street is private right of way with easement to the city for street purposes.

Maple street, Windsor road, Garfield avenue and Acacia avenue are private right of ways without easements.

Park avenue is a dedicated street crossing.

Palmer avenue is private right of way without easement.

Cypress avenue and Los Feliz road are dedicated street crossings.

Laurel street, Eulalia street and Cerritos avenue are private right of ways without easements, although Cerritos avenue is used for a crossing.

San Fernando road is a dedicated street.

As to Gardena avenue the right of way was granted with a reservation on the part of the first party to lay out streets across the right of way and the second party agrees to make proper crossings.

It appears that the grades have been established on Brand boulevard along both sides of the railroad right of way but that south, of Colorado street grades have not been officially established at the street crossings crossing the railroad right of way.

QUEENS AND JEWELS

From the time Cornelia refused the hand of King Ptolemy and supplied material for legend by her reference to her sons as her "jewels," rare gems and queens have played an important role in the vicissitudes of royalty. It was Queen Isabella who pawned her jewels that the penniless Columbus might sail the unknown Atlantic and eventually discover one of the Bahama islands and other territory in the vicinity which has since become known as North and South America. The history of France and Italy is incomplete without the somewhat salacious accounts of certain queens and near queens whose passion for jewels swerved the destinies of empires.

Now comes a strange dispatch from Paris. Behind the scenes of unusual political affairs in Greece is found the story of another queen and her jewels. While King Constantine was carrying out the plans necessary to resume the throne of Greece, it seems that his mother, Queen Olga, found the household expenses mounting higher and higher. The Paris cable simply states that an emissary of the queen was sent to America to sell if possible, some of the queen's jewels.

Court records in New York show that an electrician from an ocean liner was arrested for attempting to smuggle in certain pieces of jewelry. The ownership of the jewels not being definitely established, they were confiscated and are now in the possession of customs officials. What disposition Queen Olga will make of them remains to be seen.

But the tradition of a queen and her jewels is kept alive. Future historians, setting down the extraordinary happenings in Europe since 1914, must not fail to record the tragic and unsuccessful attempt of a dowager queen to peddle her jewels on Broadway.

DISCOUNT AHEAD OF TIME

You do not like to figure, in fact you "hate figgers," and you are beginning to wonder if that is not one of the reasons why you have not gotten farther with your plans.

So far in life you have made "rough guesses" and taken a chance.

Perhaps you have been fairly successful by this system. But some day you will make an error which will be costly to you.

The only chance you have of permanent success is through figuring out before you start, with due allowance for bad luck and drawbacks which are unavoidable and which are bound to confront any undertaking.

Even with the most careful figuring and the exercise of the best sort of judgment, based on knowledge and experience, there are snags and pitfalls to be reckoned with which no man can see from the beginning, so give yourself some leeway.

Before you start anything have a clearly defined plan—a something which has been carefully figured out.

Even then there are chances against you.

This thought should not cause you to fail to make a start.

Clerk—"The long wait, sir."

Grocer—"Well, some people you never can please anyhow. Yesterday she complained of the short weight."

Porter—"All the lower berths are taken, sir."

A QUESTION OF IDENTITY

"Whose little boy is this, I wonder?" asked the old gentleman.

"There is two ways you could find out," said the small boy.

"How so, my son?"

"You might guess or you might inquire," replied the small boy.

THE LESSER EVIL

Following a recent earthquake in a region that shall be nameless, five-year-old Jimmie was sent by his fond parents to a distant uncle's home.

Three days later they received this wire: "Am returning your boy. Send the earthquake!"

SOUNDED LIKE AN INVITATION

The children in the Sunday school class were getting restless and the teacher, to divert them, asked all who wished to go to heaven to stand up.

All rose except one little girl.

"Don't you want to go to heaven, Jennie?" asked the teacher.

"Yes'm," was the response, "but I know mother doesn't want me to leave her just yet."

JEAN'S VICTORY

By HAZEL L. WILLIAMS.

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Tom brought his bride to the little suburban town where the Miltons had lived ever since they came over on one of the first ships from England.

It was a snobbish little town, and from the first everyone said Tom's marriage would be a failure. For he had committed the unpardonable sin of overlooking the marriageable girls in his own set and marrying a rank outsider.

And that wasn't all. Tom had found her doing a song and dance act in a cabaret. To the people in a small town, where everyone has always known everyone else, an outsider of whom they know nothing always remains more or less an outsider. But to be an actress into the bargain placed Jean entirely outside the pale.

That the song and dance had been a very good one, as well as innocent and clean, made no difference.

The young people opened up the big house and in due time people called.

However, they were obliged to admit that the house was clean, and that Tom seemed to be very well cared for indeed. Instead of helping Jean's case this only served to antagonize them the more, for everyone hates to be proved in the wrong. No one ever called twice, for there seemed to be an unspoken agreement among the town ladies to slight Jean as much as possible.

Tom was a member of the country club, so he took his bride to several of the Saturday night dances, where she was rather popular with the men. Naturally she was a splendid dancer. She was pretty, too, and men found her the best of company. She would have been just as friendly and amusing with the women, but they never gave her a chance. At first she thought she could get along very nicely without the approval of the women, but she soon found that the married men no longer asked her for dances, and even some of the younger ones began to show the influence of mothers and sisters. Of course it made Tom very unhappy, for this was his "home town," and he intended to spend a good many years there. He spoke of it to Jean just once, for when he saw the hurt look in her eyes he realized that after all it was hardest on her.

In the end Jean found that she really didn't care whether they approved of her or not, for deep in her heart she knew them for what they were. This is how it came about:

It was a fearfully hot night in August, almost too hot to dance anyhow, when she and Tom arrived at the club rather late. Jean walked into the dressing room, to find it crowded with women. There was nothing strange in that, for it was usually a favorite resort between dances. But there was something strange in the way they were standing around whispering. Something in the atmosphere suggested panic. As Jean entered she heard a whisper.

"She's been sick for a week and no one has been near her but the doctor, and he can't even get a nurse to take the case. My dear, she's got—"

The speaker saw Jean and turned her back quickly, so the last word was lost. Jean walked into the room and saw a girl sitting in a huge chair. Her pretty face was ghastly and she was talking hysterically to the women near her.

"I rode out from town with her the day she was taken ill," she was saying. "My God, if I get it my face will be marked."

Her voice rose in a trembling crescendo and broke. Jean stared at her, a look of horror slowly dawning in her eyes. She turned and walked quietly from the room and stood for a moment on the veranda, contemplating a search for Tom. She decided against it because she knew he would try to prevent what she intended to do. She hurried home and changed quickly into more serviceable clothes. She packed a bag and, leaving a note on the table for Tom, she stole out a side door and across the field to the doctor's. She found him preparing to go out and his face was white and tired.

"I am going out on an important case," he said, "so if you're not terribly ill I can't stop now."

Jean explained her errand and overcame the doctor's resistance. He expected the crisis that night and he was greatly in need of help, even as inexperienced as Jean's would be.

So the one-time cabaret performer did what none of the "virtuous wives" had the courage to do. There is no need to tell of the terrible battle Jean and the doctor waged against death. They conquered and Jean stayed with the woman until she was able to care for herself again. Of course, Tom had tried to get Jean home again, but she was in quarantine, so his efforts were useless, even if she herself would have consented to go.

When she finally did go back home there was a look about her that frightened Tom. Her old ready smile seldom lit up her face and there was a serenity in her bearing that nothing could disturb. After seeing what that other woman had suffered, her own troubles seemed petty. As is the way of the world, the women whose friendship Jean had once longed for flocked around her when she no longer cared. She was quite a heroine for a time, but all the praise she received did not mean half as much to her as the love and approval she saw in Tom's eyes.

Reginald Heber (1783-1826), the author of "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," died the same year as did President John Adams and Thomas Jefferson.

PANCHO VILLA RESTS IN PEACE ON FARM

(By International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, May 21.—The boss of a 200,000-acre ranch, and with many of his former officers and men occupying small farms around his holdings, Pancho Villa, former Mexican revolutionary leader and bandit, is waxing fat and happy in a life of peace at Cantuillo, in the state of Durango, Mexico.

At least, so says J. E. Hardy, American mining man who has returned to Los Angeles after a year spent in the vicinity of Villa's estate. According to Hardy, Villa, having lost most of his revolutionary popularity with the people, is taking no chances and goes about armed to the teeth and accompanied by a formidable body guard.

"In an endeavor to win back some of his lost popularity, Villa has offered to rebuild the city of Jimenez, destroyed during the war, and has offered $20,000 to improve the school system of Parral," said Hardy.

The young people opened up the big house and in due time people called.

However, they were obliged to admit that the house was clean, and that Tom seemed to be very well cared for indeed. Instead of helping Jean's case this only served to antagonize them the more, for everyone hates to be proved in the wrong. FAMOUS WOMAN DIES IN DENVER

(By International News Service)

DENVER, May 21.—Mrs. John J. Manford, who gained fame half a century ago by her determined and successful "smoking out" from the Estes park region of the Earl of Dunraven, and who was known to thousands of American tourists who have visited the Rocky Mountain national park, is dead.

She succumbed to a surgical operation in a Longmont, Colo., hospital, and was buried in Loveland, Colo., last week.

As Miss Flora Shoemaker, Mrs. Manford abandoned a prosperous dress-making business in Denver, in the early '70's, to become a "squatter" on land in the Estes park region that Lord Thomas Wyncham, Earl of Dunraven, had attempted to acquire as a "hunting preserve."

Lord Thomas made his first visit to the Estes park region, now the Rocky Mountain national park, in 1872. He was so delighted with the country that, a few years later, he started a campaign to secure title to the entire countryside and keep it as a vast estate upon which he and his friends of the English nobility could hunt big game.

It was charged in some quarters that a number of men were hired to homestead the region and turn their claims over to the earl. He secured it is said, title to more than 15,000 acres before the federal government learned of his lordship's plans and moved to check them.

Learning from an "inside" source that Uncle Sam was preparing to contest the Earl of Dunraven's claims and that the territory might be thrown open to new entry, Miss Shoemaker closed out her modeste establishment and went to the park.

After carefully scrutinizing the "estate" of Lord Thomas, Miss Shoemaker selected a particularly beautiful tract on the west bank of Fish creek, just opposite a palatial hotel and casino that the foreign nobleman had erected to house his visiting friends. Miss Shoemaker quietly filed a homestead entry on the tract and pitched a tent for her temporary home.

A tremendous protest was voiced by the English colony against this invasion and some threats are said to have been made upon the young woman's life. She defied the earl and his guests, and, purchasing a rifle and a goodly supply of ammunition, "dared" anyone to oust her.

For weeks following, Miss Shoemaker was subjected to numerous petty annoyances. She was unable to hire men to build her house or do any work about her claim. Undaunted, she started the arduous task of shaping with her own hands a log cabin. Several night attacks were made upon her lonely shack, but the intruders retired when she opened up with volleys from her rifle. At the end of a few months Miss Shoemaker completed a home and also built a substantial fence around her property "under the noses" of the protesting Englishmen.

The plucky "squatters" determination and success inspired others and soon new settlers began to "stake out" claims on the land desired by the Earl of Dunraven, contesting his title to the property. They came so rapidly and in such numbers that Lord Thomas lost hope of holding the domain, relinquishing his claims and leaving the country forever.

The Manfords have operated a chain of cottages for the benefit of tourists for the past few years.

French Reservists Mutiny

(By International News Service)

PARIS, May 21.—An entire camp of French military reservists, who had been called to the colors for service in the Ruhr district of Germany, mutinied at Plombieres, near Dijon, and paraded the streets with red flags, meanwhile singing revolutionary songs. It was revealed today by the Socialist newspaper l'Humanite.

The Automobile Club of Philadelphia is 21 years old.

Old Boy Some Doctor

(By International News Service)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 21.—You can call him old Doc. Dempsey after this. He only has a needle, a bit of medicine and a silk thread, but the old boy is some doctor.

While throwing a stick to his Belgian police dogs, the lady of the pair, christened Sophie Ginsberg, ran against a nail in a post and ripped a hole in her side that required immediate attention. The champion called Teddy down to his work. He cleaned the cut with warm water, painted it with iodine and then, after soaking the silk thread in alcohol, put eight stitches into Sophie's side.

She didn't even then whimper, the big fellow said, as we sat down to lunch.

"She's a game bird and I really believe she knew that I was helping her. I tied her up in the house so she won't hurt herself again and I won't let her loose again until I take out the stitches. Remember Jeffries sewed up Fitzsimmons' leg at Harbin Springs after the cub bear bit him. Jeff was good, wasn't he?"

FAMILY LIVING LIKE BARBARIANS

Man, Wife and Four Children,
Garbed in Rags, Discovered in New York

By MARGERY REX
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, May 21.—In the Ramapo range, barely 30 miles from New York city, dwell the "Hill people."

They of the hills are a distinct race. Not black, nor white, nor yet red, but an admixture of all three are the mountaineers so near to cities, but so far from civilization.

As remote from the amenities of modern life as though on a plateau in Tibet, these hill folk come to public notice only when one of them crosses the path of a city dweller. Such an event came to pass when Mrs. William A. Servin, wife of ex-Assemblyman Servin, was taking a walk through the hills near Pearl River, New York, with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Forbes. Climbing up a remote mountainous path they beheld human beings whose like they had never seen previously—four children so wretchedly clad and so encrusted with dirt as to seem scarcely human; a shack that might have housed primitive peoples.

Why Man Hid in Mountains
The truant officer of Pearl River was notified. He took action. And thus the story came out concerning the strange family called Thompsons.

According to the authorities of Pearl River, this group is not to be classed with the "Jackson Whites," is claimed for the Thompsons that they are pure white, in this respect differing from the clan inhabiting the Ramapos.

Nevertheless they resemble in appearance and mode of life that race whose existence is as weird as an old myth.

Thompson has no first names for his children—if ever they had such he cannot remember them. We may suppose when he wished to speak to one of them he called out "Say" to which every one happened to be looking at him. He could not recall his own first name and recollected only that after getting into some trouble in Rockland county he has escaped to shelter in the mountains.

His motive for seeking seclusion on the heights is the same as that of the antecedents of the "Jackson Whites," if stories about their origin are to be believed.

Aristocratic Names Handed Down
Ancestors of the race were Dutch, Indians and negroes. To Hovenkop Mountain came the slaves of the early Dutch, a seceding tribe of Indians and slaves who fled from the south in the days before slavery was abolished.

Old aristocratic names such as Van Dunk, De Grote and De Fries—families now extinct—have been handed down by the early settlers of the Ramapos who established squatter claims upon the land where they erected cabins and hovels as their feudal halls.

Another tradition has it that sections of the Hessian army fleeing from the Continentals and deserters from the English army in 1776 hid upon these hills and there remained part forebears of the "Jackson Whites" of today.

Some say that "Jackson Whites" originally was "blacks and whites"; others claim that Jackson and White were names of negroes who settled there.

No laws and no creeds govern these hill dwellers—either in the Ramapos or in other isolated spots.

Yet they are said to be a peaceful, gentle and thrifty people; only at great intervals does a feud or murder break the somnolent quiet of their sequestered lives. They are untrained, but not unintelligent, yet among the "Jacksons" there are many phases of mental and physical degeneracy due to continual intermarriage.

Eye Put Out by Poker

But it is doubtful if any enlightening influences ever shone upon the lives of the Thompsons. When found by investigators after the report made by Mrs. Servin, the head of the family came out, a 14-inch curved knife swinging from a cord attached to his overalls. He has but one eye, the other having been shot out, or, according to rumor, put out by Thompson's father with a hot poker in order to instill into his son respect for parental advice.

The four children of the wild family wore queer garments, of sizes originally designed for their elders. They were rounded up by their father to have pictures taken, upon which the photographer inquired for their mother. Thompson stoutly declared "she didn't count," but was finally prevailed upon to bring her forth from their cabin lair. A towel was wrapped about her head. She wore a dress about six sizes too large for her and carelessly pinned up for convenience. She seemed dull, listless, indifferent to life.

The cabin's interior was filled with pieces of wood and piles of litter. There were no beds visible; only wooden soap boxes for seats, wooden pie plates, to substitute for china-ware, and empty tin cans for cups.

Efforts to civilize the Thompsons are being made by the Red Cross and by individual women of the Pearl River region.

The United States army code was invented by General A. J. Myer. By it, communications can be transmitted from 15 to 20 miles, as far as one man can see another with the telescope.

Jack Lucas' Lucky Day

Jack Lucas' birthday is on the 13th of the month of September, and he always approaches the 13th of any month with confidence as it means good luck, especially so when the 13th happens to come on Friday as was the case this month. On Friday last he negotiated a $14,000 deal whereby J. A. May traded his property at 210 Fairview to B. P. Music for a 7-room residence property in Los Angeles.

The same day he began a deal that was finished next day, in which O. M. Newby bought six lots in Casa Verdugo, four facing west on Central, south from Stocker, one near the corner of Brand and Dryden, and the other facing on Stocker, a little west of Brand. On the lot at the corner of Stocker and Central, Mr. Newby will have C. L. Stanford build for him a modern two-story brick business house, which it is expected will house a fine drug store, with apartments upstairs.

On the next lot will be another fine two-story business house, which may have a bank for the occupant of the first floor. There will be apartments above. On the third lot will be erected a fine duplex bungalow and on the fourth a six or seven room residence.

Another sale recently consummated by Mr. Lucas was that of the Freed residence, one of the finest in Casa Verdugo, at 809 Melrose, to A. F. Dobson, manager of the Astra Film Corporation.

TONG WAR BREAKS OUT IN LOCKPORT

SACRAMENTO, May 21.—Tong war broke out again in Lockport, this county, early today when Hop Sing highlanders are alleged to have fired a general merchandise store belonging to a Bing Kong tongman.

The building was razed, but officers arrived at the scene in time to protect Chinese fleeing from the building from the rival tongmen who are alleged to have been laying in wait for their intended victims with rifles. Deputies from the Sacramento sheriff's office were dispatched to Lockport to make an investigation.

DR. HENRY R. HARROWER TO ERECT NEW $47,000 BUILDING

Structure Will Be Used for Administration Purposes and Accommodate Various Executive Officers, Secretaries, Library and Other Departments

A building permit, which is one of the largest taken out in several years, has just been granted to Dr. Henry R. Harrower. This permit is for a new administration building, which will cost approximately $47,000. It is to be located in front of the present laboratory, or manufacturing department of the Harrower laboratory, on the corner of Broadway and Belmont street.

The new building will face Broadway for 140 feet and will be 40 feet deep. It will be of red brick, and two stories in height, and will contain twenty-eight rooms. These will accommodate the various executive offices, secretaries and departments.

Dr. Harrower and his editorial assistants will occupy a suite of rooms on the ground floor. The library will be 15 by 32 feet, and there will be in addition to this two other rooms devoted to the translating department, which is under the direction of Henry Brockway. There will also be a clipping and filing department.

James Howarth, the general manager, will have an office adjoining Dr. Harrower's, and his secretaries will occupy a room between his office and that of C. L. Cyphers, the assistant manager. A consultation room, with dressing rooms and facilities, makes up the east wing of the ground floor.

A large lobby and central stairway separate the west wing from the east. It is planned to construct an extensive vault under the stairway. The west wing will be devoted to the correspondence and mailing department.

William H. Block, who is now in charge of the recently-opened Kansas City office, will return shortly and continue his old work as chief of the correspondence and mailing department. Next to his office, a long room clear across the building will be occupied by the numerous typists and stenographers—we understand that the Harrower laboratory has 15 or more Underwood typewriters in use—and beyond this will be a large room for the addressing, mailing, and addressograph department. The latter will contain an especially built brick vault to accommodate over 125,000 metal stencils that have been made in the last few months to reduce the work and expense of this department to a minimum. In the southwest corner, opening onto the alley and also toward the present laboratory building, will be the shipping department.

There will be a series of large rooms on the second floor, two of the largest of which—30 by 41½ feet—will be used by the bookkeeping department and as a lecture room respectively. The latter will be fitted up to accommodate between 300 and 400 persons. It is planned that this lecture room will be used most of the time as a recreation room for the numerous congenial employees of this growing organization. A rest and dining room for the women and girls, with convenient facilities for such cooking as may be desired, will adjoin the lecture room.

Another room on the second floor will be fitted up as a testing laboratory and several additional offices are provided for in the plan in order to accommodate the growth and expansion which is anticipated in the future.

This new building will be quite the largest of its type in Glendale, and it is hoped that it will be finished in five or six months. The business of the Harrower laboratory is expanding rapidly and the need for this additional space is very urgent. At present the administration offices occupy the thirteen rooms over the Glendale avenue branch of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings bank, as well as the store space at 704 East Broadway, are crowded to their utmost capacity.

In addition to being a very progressive man, Dr. Harrower has an eye for the beautiful, and we are pleased to learn that the building will be set back about 25 feet from Broadway. This will permit of a shrubbery-lined driveway and also a lawn. This new administration building—combining beauty and utility—will be a decided improvement to the east side of the city, in which Dr. Harrower has centered his interest.

L. M. Hodge of San Fernando prepared the plan for the building. He was the architect of the recently dedicated Glendale Sanitarium hospital. The construction is to be in charge of Clarence Erickson, who built the laboratory building, and is now finishing Dr. Harrower's new residence on East Broadway.

BOX SOCIAL HELD BY AMERICAN LEGION

The box social held by the American Legion and the Woman's Auxiliary at the Legion headquarters last evening was a pleasant affair and was attended by a large number of members, despite the inclement weather.

Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour by the 50 or more participants of the social evening, and then the boxes and baskets were auctioned, the buyers of the baskets sharing the contents with the ladies who had prepared them.

RELIABLE STORAGE BATTERY DEALERS

Pacner-Doll, distributors of Philadelphia Diamond Grid Batteries in this Glendale territory are good authority on electric equipment and storage batteries for all automobiles. They also say that the time has actually come for the automobilist to observe more carefully the expense of his storage battery. It has become quite apparent that the careless buyer is beginning to have his eyes opened to the music of old high cost of battery service.

The more tuneful music brings out the harmony of the dealer and consumer.

We all come in contact sooner or later with the wise man who is loath to give his opinion from hearsay. He knows so much about storage batteries in general that he fails to tell you of the good qualities of the battery he represents. In fact—he is sure to arouse some doubt with a purchase—who can you trust?

"Somebody says"—and "Everybody does" leads you to believe many untruths about storage batteries.

The unfair storage battery dealer makes his long profit from the inexperienced car owner. You generally find this dealer displaying over his door an attractive sign bearing the name of some popular long-guaranteed battery, but it is his point to try and sell you a battery without a long guarantee.

By his doing this, you lose what the thoughtful motorist is looking for today, a product that is put on the market to stay sold. A product that is backed to the limit by the manufacturer.

It is urgently advisable to the automobilist to purchase storage batteries from the legitimate distributor or dealer and without a doubt he gets a legitimate storage battery.

Series of Articles on Patents, Inventions, Etc.

By WILLIAM C. CUTLER of Glendale, California

In 1810 congress authorized the purchase of a building for the accommodation of the general postoffice and of the office of the keeper of patents. The building purchased had been known as "Blodgett's Hotel," situated on E street between Seventh and Eighth streets northwest, and in 1811 the business of the patent office was moved from a house on Eighth street, just below F street, to the second floor of the new building, where it remained under the superintendence of Dr. Wm. Thornton until his death, which took place in 1828. Dr. Thornton was the first superintendent of the patent office, the position having been created for him by President Madison. In 1836 these quarters were destroyed by fire and congress then authorized the erection of the present building. The original, or F street wing, was finished in 1840, the east wing in 1852, the west wing in 1856 and the north wing in 1867, the year I was born. The total cost of the building has been about $3,000,000. In 1877 a disastrous fire broke out on the third floor of the G and Ninth street wings, destroying many records and models.

The patent office building is 403 feet long by 274 feet wide. It surrounds a court approximately 264 by 106 feet. The portico in the center of the F street front, copied from the architecture of the Parthenon at Athens, is a noble and impressive feature of the building. The whole structure viewed from any angle, presents an artistic and dignified appearance and is an ornament to the city of Washington.

Growth, Organization and Methods of Granting Patents

Since 1836, more than a million and a quarter patents have been issued, the number of my last patent being 1,358,299. The patent office began its existence with a commissioner, one examiner, a clerk and two other clerks having the necessary qualifications as draftsman. The office force now includes a commissioner, two assistant commissioners, five law examiners, a board of appeals of five members, forty-eight examiners having the rank of principals, about 360 assistant examiners, and a clerical force numbering approximately 525. There are 45 examining divisions, each in charge of a principal, who has under him from six to eight assistant examiners. Each division passes on distinct subjects of invention, representing the entire range of human endeavor in tangible effort. Whether the invention pertains to a hairpin, or a cantilever bridge, a perfume or a deadly gas, a process for mounting jewels or for extracting and refining metals, a new toy or a new engine of destruction; whether it is mechanical, chemical or electrical, as simple as a pin or as complex as a newspaper printing press, there will be found in the patent office experts possessed of requisite knowledge to understand the invention, its operation and the field occupied by similar attempts.

Every material device or operation in a material process is disclosed eventually in the comprehensive methods of the patent office, and every development thereof, before being protected by patent, must pass through the hands of the examining force of the office, to be critically scrutinized, subjected to amendment and rejected or accepted. Virtually all of the members of the examining force are college graduates, most of whom hold degrees in both law and science, such combined education and training being found to make for efficiency in the discharge of their important duties.

The assistant examiner, by whom applications for patents are originally dealt with, must know the "art" relating to the invention disclosed. He must be at least tolerably familiar with the patents and literature in various languages covering similar inventions, must understand the principles, both scientific and technical, of the devices scattered throughout the office. He must be able, of course, to read drawings and must have so detailed a knowledge of the principles of, and decisions in, patent law as to be able to correspond intelligently and to hold his own in controversy with the alertest attorneys, many of whom represent the largest manufacturing interests in the country.

The primary examiners are the immediate superiors of the assistant examiners. Each of them is in charge of several classes of inventions, and his decision, if in favor of an application, is final.

It is estimated that the adjudications of the primary examiners involve property rights reaching into hundreds of millions annually. A single invention—the Bessemer converter process—has been held by one authority to have doubled the wealth of the world.

SECTION FAVORS A CIVIC CENTER

Members of the parliamentary law section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club were guests of Mrs. C. A. Brandstater, 401 West Wilson avenue, when a most profitable and enjoyable session was held, over which Mrs. Harry Greenwalt, curator of the section, presided.

An interesting debate on the advantages of a swimming pool for Glendale, participated in by Mmes. C. A. Redmond, Harry Lockwood and H. L. Baker on the affirmative and Mmes. Benjamin Holbrook and C. A. Brandstater, on the negative, was decided for the affirmative side, and resulted in the adoption of a resolution to the chamber of commerce in which the parliamentary law section expresses itself, as being in favor of a civic center for Glendale and pledges itself to help secure it.

Guests of the day were Mrs. H. F. Brister and her daughter, Miss McDonald of New Zealand, and Mrs. Fannie Leach, a new resident in Glendale, whose marvellously beautiful dramatic soprano won the hearts of the large number present when she favored them with a group of songs.

Mrs. Brandstater's home was decorated in roses in honor of her guests and dainty refreshments were served.

HARDY WREATHS FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Mr. Allen of the Glendale Florist Shop has made a great many very beautiful wreaths of everlasting flowers and finds a big demand for them on the part of tourists who are here or others from the east who are sending them back to be used on Memorial Day. His books show orders for wreaths to be sent to Missouri, New Mexico, Indiana, Massachusetts, Iowa, Nevada, Illinois and Wisconsin, several orders going to some of these states.

BOSTON, May 21.—A movement is under way here to establish a municipal lighting plant. Such a public-owned enterprise would save consumers millions of dollars and enable the city to light its streets and parks and obtain power far cheaper than from private companies. The campaign for a municipal lighting plant is a protest against the exorbitant rates charged by the Edison Electric Illuminating company and the Boston Consolidated Gas company.

BABE IS SENT TO JAIL WITH MOTHER

The woman's three sons, Frank, aged thirteen; John, aged eleven, and Charles, aged eight, hysterically rushed to their mother's arms and bade her good-bye in the courthouse before her removal to prison.

STUDIO NEWS AND GOSSIP

WHAT THE SUBTITLE IS

William de Mille has discovered what the subtitle of the motion picture really is!

It is a Greek chorus!

"It has exactly the same importance the Greek chorus has in Greek drama," the Paramount producer explains. "It functions the same way; it is an integral part of the picture itself; it should have the same style and literary color as the rest of the picture."

William de Mille, famous as a playwright before going into motion pictures, has given to the photoplay-going world some subtitles that show the stamp of genius.

"The subtitles," explains Mr. de Mille, "should develop the story, illuminate the psychology and give whatever information is necessary to a proper understanding of the situation. If the subtitle does this, it at once becomes capable of literary development."

"But, as handled up to now, the subtitle is too frequently not a part of the picture, but an announcement made by the management from the stage. Titles are written for the eye and not the ear, and this fact, alone, makes necessary an entirely new literary form."

"This new literary form has not yet been perfected, but we are working toward it, and you are going to see it very soon—for some of us are doing our level best to bring it about. You will see the evolution of a picture which will approximate the Greek play in construction."

GIRL OF TODAY IS TOO MUCH CRITICIZED

(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON, May 21.—The modern American girl is not bad.

Notwithstanding her knee-length skirts, cigaret smoking and general make-up, she has been too much blamed for conditions over which she has no control.

This is the opinion of Mrs. Thomas Estill, one of the leading Salvation Army workers of America, who is in Washington attending the National Social Congress of that organization.

"I don't see why they don't stop picking on the girls," said Commissioner Estill. "The girl of today is too much criticized. Let the poor little thing alone."

"I have worked among girls in every big city in the eastern part of the United States as the wife of the territorial commissioner of the Salvation Army. I know girls."

"Of course, it is deplorable that girls smoke, wear scant attire, run around alone too much, and are generally reckless."

"But why blame the girls? It is simply the spirit of the times."

"After all," the Salvation Army worker said, "the girl of today is the same sweet girl our grandmothers used to be... just dressed in different clothes."

Mount Ararat, in Armenia, the resting place of Noah's ark, is 12,700 feet in height.

THE MAKE-UP QUESTION

Will make-up for movie actors ever be dispensed with?

Is it detrimental or advantageous? Here are reasons pro and con:

Those who think make-up is detrimental say:

That it destroys character.
That it is uncomfortable and fatiguing.

That if you perspire it spoils your make-up and you cannot even wipe your forehead comfortably.

That if you kiss a girl whose lips are made-up, your own lip make-up is spoiled.

That it takes up many hours of valuable time.

In its favor:

Unless the face and hands are made-up the red rays cause the individual to look very dark.

That freckles and blemishes even if almost unnoticeable to the naked eye, are brought out in pitiless detail by the camera.

That make-up serves as a mask and robs the wearer of self-consciousness.

Of course, in cases where a character is to be presented it is necessary to resort to make-up and under existing photographic conditions it is also essential unless screen actors want to look like mullahs.

Milton Sills, leading man, says it is the most fatiguing thing in the work—making-up and wearing a make-up through the whole day's work.

Betty Compson says that she cannot even rehearse without it.

Casson Ferguson, leading juvenile, declares that it is necessary where you haven't natural good looks, a fine skin and unlined features.

Who is right?

FRENCH MURDERER TO BE TRIED SOON

(By International News Service)
PARIS, May 21.—Henry Girard, insurance agent, who was known as "Gentleman Girard," will face trial shortly here, according to reports from official circles. Girard is alleged to be one of the most ingenious criminals known to the Paris police.

After three years of investigation by the French authorities, Girard is charged with two murders, several attempted murders and forgeries. Cultures of deadly microbes and concoctions of poisonous mushrooms, it is alleged, were used by Girard in the murders charged against him by the Paris police.

Murder Charge Dismissed

(By International News Service)
FARMINGTON, Mo., May 21.—A murder charge against Mrs. Letta Parsons, 13-year-old girl wife of John Parsons, slayer of her six-year-old stepdaughter, Lilly Parsons, was dismissed early today by Circuit Judge Peter Huck.

A charge of fourth degree manslaughter was immediately filed in the juvenile court by Prosecuting Attorney Wm. Coffey. The case will be called for trial within the next few days, Judge Tucker, presiding over the juvenile court, announced.

FORD PRODUCING 4000 CARS A DAY

Ford is building cars at full speed. And, according to an official statement from the factory at Detroit, the demand for Ford cars and trucks still exceeds the output, despite the fact that new high level of production has been reached.

By the first of May the figures representing daily production were in the neighborhood of 4000 a day, so the May schedule was set at 101,125 cars and trucks, not including the output of the Ford Canadian plant or any of the foreign assembling plants. The output mounted daily; May 12 brought forth 4932, the greatest number that have been produced in one day so far this year. Since the month has 25 working days, present indications point to a new high record.

A comparison of Ford production figures for 1920 and 1921 discloses the fact that for April, 1921, the output was greater by 34,511 than for the corresponding month of a year ago. The output for May, 1921, will probably overshadow May, 1920, by between 15 and 20 thousand cars and trucks.

Approximately 43,000 men are at work in the Detroit plant of the Ford Motor Company. The factory is operating on full time, six days a week and three shifts a day.

"We were never in a better condition than we are right now," said Henry Ford recently.

OFFICERS ELECTED
BY MUSIC CLUB

Will Give Banquet Followed by Program in Early Part of Next Month

The Glendale Music Club which met in the music room of the high school, Friday evening, transacted considerable business of importance and also enjoyed a brief program.

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones presided and in the absence of Mrs. Hagood, Mrs. Dora Gibson acted as recording secretary.

Following the reading of the minutes the question of increasing the membership of the organization came up for discussion and a decision was reached to have a membership drive to be conducted by five teams, headed by the following chairmen:

Team 1, Mrs. Charles A. Parker; 2, Mrs. Spencer Robinson; 3, Mrs. Nathan Rigdon; 4, Mrs. H. R. Gibbs; 5, Mrs. Alexander Mitchell. These ladies will be assisted by co-workers.

The club also decided to have a banquet June 6 in the First Methodist church, to be followed by a program in the auditorium. At that time the organization will entertain Mrs. Gertrude Ross, composer, and Miss Jessie McDonald, singer. They have been invited to join the club as honorary members and are much interested in the development.

The selection of officers for the coming year was an important item of business and the following were unanimously elected:

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president; Mrs. Catherine Shank, first vice president; Mrs. Spencer Robinson, second vice president; Mrs. L. N. Hagood, recording secretary; Mrs. M. L. Marlenee, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Warren Roberts, treasurer; Spencer Robinson, auditor; Mmes. Dora Gibson, Calvin Whiting and Frank Arnold directors. Assistant officers were appointed by the president, viz.: Mrs. Alexander Mitchell as assistant corresponding secretary and Mrs. Vivian Webb as assistant treasurer.

Announcement was made of the next meeting of the Juvenile Club to be held June 4, which will be in the nature of a celebration of Music Week. Mothers of members will be invited to this meeting which is expected to take place at the Intermediate at 2 p. m.

The program which followed the business session of the club included two piano numbers by Mrs. Bettie Webster, "Two Larks" (Leschetizky) and a mazurka by Godard. Impromptu by Reinhold was played by Mrs. John Allen Legge.

WOMEN IN TOKIO
REFUSE EQUALITY

(By International News Service)

TOKIO, May 21.—There is a good under-surface battle going on in the American colonies in Tokio and Yokohama right now. If you notice a tilt in the head of friend wife as she speaks to friend husband at a dinner or a dance, if you see friend fiancée give you a look of disdain, then you may at first be a bit worried over the cause of this untoward little occurrence. Then again you may stop and remember "Women's Rights!"

About two months ago in Tokio the men held a meeting. Some man—he is lost now—or in hiding down in the South Seas somewhere, suggested that the women of Tokio be given full membership in the American association of the capital city. He suggested—then demanded, a vote. Suffrage is now in vogue, he argued. Our country has so decided. Women are our equals, yet we meet and make merry here in Tokio without them, disdaining them, as it were. Whereupon an argument behind closed doors followed. Exact details of that historic debate between the American men of the Oriental city are lacking but it is known—and some secret informer let the wives and fiancées know—the vote was close. So close, that in Yokohama, where Tokio news gets in now and then, the men, taking courage, flatly refused the women membership.

Some male enthusiast informed a well-known American woman in Tokio of the new honor that was to be theirs. Her answer? A tilt of the head and the statement that "We don't want to belong to your American association!"

The feminine protector of women's rights knew what had transpired behind those closed doors. And the man knew she knew when in succession every woman member of the colony he spoke to refused with the same statement, "We don't want to belong to your organization."

Now Yokohama's membership is laughing over the quandary of the men of Tokio, who have extended the privilege of their councils to the women and received a flat refusal on the part of those to whom has been extended the honor of honors. And the membership rolls of the American association in Tokio have not as yet been increased by a single, or married, member of the feminine American colony of the city.

PRACTICAL JOKE ENDS
ALMOST SERIOUSLY

(By International News Service)

DENVER, May 21.—"Practical joking" is tabooed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jones, of this city.

Mrs. Jones and her 14-year-old son, returning home from an evening call on a neighbor, decided to "scare" the husband and father, who was sitting in the library reading. Quietly raising an unlocked window the boy shouted: "Stick 'em up."

Instead of complying with the demand and without investigating, Jones seized a rifle and fired through the window at what he supposed were hold-up men. The bullet struck Mrs. Jones a glancing blow on the head and penetrated the boy's arm. Neither was seriously wounded.

KING OF ENGLAND

PICKS DEMPSEY

(By International News Service)

PARIS, May 21.—King George of England picks Jack Dempsey to beat Georges Carpentier. This royal sporting forecast was revealed here today by Hugh C. Wallace, the American ambassador to France, who was recently the guest of Lord Derby in London.

King George would like to see the fight, but of course, being a king, he cannot run across the Atlantic to Jersey City. Ambassador Wallace went to England to see the grand national, one of the classics of the British turf. He met king George, and as moving pictures of Carpentier had just been shown at Buckingham palace, the conversation naturally turned to the approaching international prize fight in America.

ATTEMPT TO ROB
S. P. MAIL CAR

Men Escape by Jumping From Moving Train—Brakeman Finds Them

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—A bold attempt to rob the mail car of Southern Pacific train No. 10, known as the San Francisco-Ogden express, at Sacramento, was reported to headquarters of the Southern Pacific here today. The attempted robbery was frustrated by the alertness of Brakeman Peart, who discovered two men in the mail storage car immediately in the rear of the car used for sorting the mail. When discovered, the men leaped from the moving train and escaped in the darkness.

It is believed that the men intended to secure a quantity of registered mail, but a check aboard the train showed nothing missing.

The men were discovered at 2:45 this morning. Sacramento police are searching for them.

NEW WARFARE IS THREATENED

LONDON, May 21.—"I cannot disarm the Polish insurgents in Upper Silesia, because they are not regular troops," declared Adelbert Korfanty, Polish commissioner in Upper Silesia, in an interview given the Daily Express correspondent at Schoppinitz and telegraphed from Oppeln today.

In replying to Premier Lloyd George's recent decision that the Polish activities in Upper Silesia are threatening a new warfare, Korfanty continued:

"Look at Ireland, for instance. Have the British forces succeeded in disarming that country? We are willing to withdraw the Polish insurgents to another line in Upper Silesia if the points they occupied are taken by allied troops. In fact we wish to retire but the insurgents will defend their positions to the last drop of blood if attacked by Germans."

There are 53,332 post offices in the United States.
